O Christ Redeemer, Lord of all, eternally the Father's Son, how marvellously before the dawn you are with his own brightness one. You are the echo of his light, the unknown glory of his face. To you in hope we raise our prayer, O hear us, Savior of our race! Remember, Lord how long ago you took within the Virgin's womb our nature and as a man you came to touch and heal us of our wound. Each year the present day proclaimsto all with joy this solemn word: now from his Father Christ has come, the Word of Peace to save the world. The earth, the sky, the sea and all that lives and teems beneath its waves, re-echo this great word of hope today and give the Father praise. And we, your servants, whom the blood of Jesus cleansed from every sin, proclaim this day that He is born who brings the joy of this new hymn. We offer God our Father praise and praise the virgin-born his Son that in their Spirit we may be for ever in their glory one. Amen.
